About

I am a Fresh graduate from Haramaya University with a degree in Information Systems. With a solid foundation in IS principles and programming languages such as Python, JavaScript, and HTML/CSS, I am equipped to develop dynamic websites and applications. My coursework has provided me with a strong understanding of computer systems and networks. I am passionate about learning and staying current with the latest technological advancements. I excel in problem-solving and enjoy collaborating on team projects. My goal is to leverage my skills and knowledge to make meaningful contributions to the tech industry and continue growing as a future IS professional.
